

The tasks for writing the main project outputs - the texts for the chapters and for the video tutorial - will be delegated to the teams under the supervision of a modular team leader. We would like to avoid micromanagement by the grant holder and the regional project manager for writing the modules and entrust the modular teams with the autonomy to organise the writing themselves within their modular team.

The methodology we would like to apply is the three-phase model to delegate tasks for the tasks:

1. handing the task of writing the modules over to the team leaders,
2. supporting task completion,
3. closing the task.

We trust that the team leaders and/or the members of the teams for each module will contact each other to start writing the draft texts.
